NEW!

CallMatic 3*pro*

The computer-controlled electronic sow feeding system
– animal-friendly, performance-related feeding –

CallMatic3^{pro} – individual and condition-based feeding of pregnant sows kept in groups

With CallMatic3^{pro}, Big Dutchman offers a new electronic sow feeding (ESF) system that is based on the benefits of CallMatic^{pro}, our globally successful ESF station. You will therefore be investing in a management system that is focused on animal welfare without disregarding functionality and efficiency. CallMatic3^{pro} ideally combines the advantages of animal-friendly housing and a feeding method specially adapted to the requirements of each individual sow. For the sows, group management means more freedom to move, better health and robustness. Individual, computer-controlled feeding allows the feed supply to be matched precisely to the condition of the sow. For the farm manager, this means healthy sows, performance-related feeding and a good use of the house surface area.

Important features of CallMatic3^{pro}

- suitable for static and dynamic groups;
- optimised exit area with two gates: the sows cannot enter the station from the exit side;
- available for dry and liquid feeding;
- trough unit with or without trough flap;
- station open at the top for the highest possible incidence of light: better acceptance of the station, especially by gilts during the training process;
- solid side partitions for undisturbed feed intake;
- use of sound-absorbing materials: low noise level inside and around the station;
- BigFarmNet control;
- good price : performance ratio.

Available options:

- operating terminal at the entrance gate;
- sorting unit;
- up to two colour markers;
- separate mineral dispensing.

Available from Q3 2021
